graduating from law school.

While attending the University of Richmond he was a member of the Army ROTC and secured his military training. Upon his graduation, Sam entered the Army with the rank of 2nd Lieutenant and was assigned to the Judge Advocate General's Corps, which is the legal department of the Army. During his time in the Army he was promoted to 1st Lieutenant and then to the rank of Captain before completing his tour of duty in 1968.

After completing his Army duties , Sam joined the firm of McGuire, Woods and Battle in Richmond, one of the largest legal firms in Virginia. He remained with this firm until he returned to Appomattox to open a law firm here some months ago. He has had wide experience in criminal and civil law practice.

In talking with the newly appointed Commonwealth Attorney, Kerr stated that, "I am very honored to have the opportunity to serve the people of Appomattox County and I will strive to discharge my duties as Commonwealth Attorney in a fair and impartial manner." He stated further, "With crime ever on the increase, I believe vigorous enforcement of our laws is necessary."

Sam is married to the former Ann Abbitt of Appomattox and they have two children, Anne Leigh, who is three and Amy who is two years of age.

uring facility. All of the other 10 are located in the Southeast -- 18 in North Carolina, one in Mississippi. Another Armstrong affiliate, E. & B. Carpet Mills, has recently begun operation of a plant at Keysville, Virginia (in Charlotte County) for the production of tacking material for carpet.

Construction of the plant is scheduled to begin as soon as engineering, design, and preparation of the site are completed. To be named later will be the general contractor for the furniture plant at Appomattox, according to L. E. Bish, Senior Vice President in charge of Manufacturing for Thomasville. The plant manager will also be named later, he said.

DISCUSSES NEED FOR FLOOD PROTECTION

ed by flood waters. Then, there was damage to utilities such as the Farmville water system and highways in the area.

Soil Conservation engineers estimate that construction cost of floodwater retarding dams to protect a good portion of the watershed would cost about one and one-half million dollars. "It stands to reason", says John Stock, spokesman for the Farmville business group, "that flood protection on the Upper Appomattox is a very economically sound project." The dams would have paid for themselves during the last few weeks if we had had them, he said. C. M. Jones, watershed engineer, SCS, told the group that field survey work for the potential dam sites should begin by late fall. He stated that other projects under way would have to be completed before work could begin on the Appomattox project.

State Senator Howard Anderson, Delegate Claude Anderson and Commissioner of Agriculture Mason Carbaugh assured the group that the Appomattox River Watershed project would have their support on the state level. State funds are needed to supplement federal funds for planning.

Congressman Watkins M. Abbitt and Wilbur Walker, administrative assistant for Congressman Dan Daniels, told the group that they favored water shed protection projects. "No watershed project from this area has ever been rejected by congress", Congressman Abbitt stated. Both Congressman Abbitt and Wilbur Walker , spokesman for Rep. Daniel who was unable to attend, pledged their support to get the project funded for construction by Congress.

sion Agent of Equal Employment Opportunities, appeared before the board to explain what their work involved so that a permanent record could be kept by the agency as a protection for all concerned. Supervisor Cole asked Mr. Perkins to recognize Jim Smith, Appomattox County Extension Agent, as the board would in their minutes, for his work with and for the county and for his outstanding efforts in public interest for this county.

The board requested Aldah Gordon County clerk, to return the proposed budget of the Board of Health to them for revision. They saw no necessity for the hiring of two additional employees and asked that this request be dropped from their budget and that they then submit the budget for approval.

The meeting recessed at this point with plans to meet on Tuesday, July 18, at 1:00 p.m. when the members of the Appomattox County School Board, along with Eugene Peyton, acting Superintendent, would appear before the board to consider interest rates on the bond issue by the Virginia Public School Authority.

The Pastor Speaks

The Palm Tree Christianity

Psal. 92:12-15 – "The righteous shall flourish like the Palm tree: He shall grow like a cedar in Lebanon."

If we would study our Bibles as we study our school books or other things of personal interest, we would find that there are many lessons God wants us to learn. He uses many earthly and material things to illustrate spiritual and heavenly truths. It is well known that oil is a source of power and light. God uses oil as a type or illustration of the spiritual power we receive from the Holy Spirit. God compares the love of a husband for his wife to the great love of Christ for the Church. The work of God teaches some practical lessons using the Palm tree as an example.

Psal. 92:12-15, "The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree: he shall grow like a cedar in Lebanon. Those that be planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God. They shall still bring forth fruit in old age; they shall be fat and flourishing; To shew that the Lord is upright; he is my rock, and there is no unrighteousness in him."

While other trees grow twisted and deformed the Palm tree stands upright. Christian people without Christ grow twisted and deformed spiritually because of the nature of sin. On the other hand Christians are to be upright, showing the righteousness of God in their daily testimony. The Palm tree grows upright toward the sun, the source of heat and light. Likewise, Christians are to keep their eyes upon Jesus, growing upright, daily lifting our hearts in prayer and receiving their light and warmth from the son of God.

The Palm tree flourishes in impossible surroundings. The ground may be parched and dry but the Palm tree shall continue to grow. The reason for this is because the roots go deep into the earth and there it finds water. The Palm tree has a sweet source of water, so do we. Our water is Christ, the water of life. He doesn't want to remain a secret. He wants you to tell the world that He is your Saviour. He is our source of eternal life.

The Palm tree is a source of comfort for weary travellers As men traveled across the deserts of Bible lands the sight of Palm trees on the horizons gave hope of comfort and rest. Caravans would travel miles

WHEN WE CONFESS

Lesson for July 23, 1972

Background Scripture: II Samuel 12:1-15; Psalms 1:8-3 Devotional Reading: Psalms 32; 1-11

A friend of mine says he can't accept Christianity because, as he puts it, "It's obsessed with sin!" People would be a lot healthier emotionally, he says, if the church were not "all the time telling how sinful they are."

Yet, I have come to the conclusion that it is not the church that is obsessed with sin (though some Christians have been), but the human soul. The gospel of Christ does not create a sense of sin and guilt, for it seems the human soul, on one way or another, is aware of these realities and is very sensitive to them. What the gospel does is to help us identify sin and guilt and deal with these realities in the only possible way.

Truth in the Inward Being

Unrecognized and unconfessed sin is like a splinter we pick up from a wood floor. We may be quite unaware (consciously speaking) that we even have a splinter in our foot. But as the days go by, the splinter begins to fester and finally the foot gets sore and we are aware that something has happened to our foot. Only when that foreign body is taken out can the foot begin to heal once again.

So it is with sin. Very often we may be quite unconscious of what we have done (we manage often to hide these things from ourselves). Yet, an unrecognized sin seems to fester within us until at last we begin to realize that there is some foreign body disturbing us from within. Thus, the psalmist is a most realistic man when he prays:

Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward being; therefore teach me wisdom in my secret heart. (51:6)

Something inside us knows when we have sinned. We feel unclean: "Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity . . ." (51: 2). The deed haunts us: ". . . my sin is ever before me" (51:3), We sense a broken relationship with our Creator: "Against thee, thee only, have I sinned . . ." (51:4), There is a sense of brokenness: ". . . let the bones which thou hast broken rejoice" (51:8).

A New And Right Spirit

Yet, it is never enough for God to "forget" our sin: "Hide thy face from my sins and blot out all my iniquities" (51:9). To cancel out the sinful deed is futile unless there is also a change of heart: "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and put a new and right spirit within me" (51:10), If God forgives the sinful act and does not find us willing to change the heart that gave birth to that act, our confession is meaningless.

Many of us want forgiveness, but we must also want "a clean heart," and "a new and right spirit" within us. When we confess it is not enough to ask God to take away our sin, unless as the hymn, "Love Divine," puts it, we can say also: "Take away the love of sinning."
